

5 STEPS TO ENSURE THAT YOU'RE OSHA-COMPLIANT ON FALL PROTECTION

Staying up to date on OSHA's fall protection regulations is crucial to maintaining a safe work environment.

Follow these five steps, and you'll be well on your way to OSHA compliance.

- ☐ Submit annual injury and illness reports
- ☐ Ensure elevations over 4 feet are protected
- ☐ Make sure holes on walking surfaces are guarded
- ☐ Provide protection around dangerous equipment
- ☐ Make sure personal protective equipment is properly fitted

These aren't the only steps to an OSHA-compliant workspace, but following them will give you a leg up.

If you find your fall protection needs an update, Edge Fall Protection has a team of experts ready to help you navigate these regulations and ensure your workplace is safe and compliant.
